Over 80 000 homes are built yearly, and by law they have to be inspected. There has never been a greater demand for home inspection in South Africa.

LEGISLATION POLICY

SASHI POSITION ON REGULATION OF HOME INSPECTORS

SASHI strives to become the national voice of the second hand home inspection profession. It is SASHI's policy to act affirmatively to influence any legislation or regulation intended to affect the profession, consumer interests, publicly financed home ownership programs or other programs allied to the profession.

SASHI demands that any legislation seeks to institute regulation of the home inspector profession require, at a minimum, passage of a psychometrically valid and defensible technical examination and adherence to professional standards of practice and code of ethics.

CODE OF ETHICS

SASHI's code of ethics is intended to ensure that consumers are treated in a fair, impartial and professional manner. Members are required to abide by this code of ethics.

Any jurisdiction may adopt in full the SASHI code of ethics and is encouraged to do so. In the U.S.A., for instance, states that adopt the code are asked to provide acknowledgement credit to ASHI.
